

Caregiver Guidelines for Supporting Normal Childhood Activities for Children and Youth Experiencing Out-of-Home Care

It is important for children and youth experiencing foster care to have normal childhood experiences similar to their peers who are not experiencing foster care. Foster parents, kinship caregivers, and group care facilities (who will be referred to as caregivers throughout this document) are authorized by RCW 74.13.710 to use a “prudent parenting” standard.

This standard is characterized by careful and thoughtful parental decisions intended to maintain a child’s health, safety, and best interest, which encourages the child’s emotional growth and development. For more information, go to <https://app.leg.wa.gov/rcw/default.aspx?cite=74.13.710>. Caregivers can provide or withhold permission without prior approval of the DCYF caseworker or agency to allow a child or youth in their care to participate in normal childhood activities based on this standard.

A “normal childhood activity” includes age or developmentally appropriate “extracurricular, enrichment, and social activities, and may include overnight activities outside the direct supervision of the caregiver for a period of over twenty-four hours and up to seventy-two hours.” Normal childhood activities within the described time frames, including being babysat, do not require background checks or prior department approval. Licensed foster parents must still follow the minimum licensing requirements for child foster homes in WAC 110-148.

A youth in Extended Foster Care is a “child” for the purposes of the dependency and must comply with responsibilities in WAC 110-90-0170; otherwise, the youth has the legal status and legal rights of an adult and is responsible for their actions.
