

Buffer Child Trauma Through Mindfulness

Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) are common. As our world is navigating through a global pandemic, this environmental trauma is compounding for so many children and families that were already living with ACEs. Let's support our families, children and society through mindfulness.

What is Mindfulness?

Mindfulness means maintaining a moment-by-moment awareness of our thoughts, feelings, bodily sensations and surrounding environment, through a gentle, nurturing lens.

BENEFITS OF MINDFULNESS:

Wellbeing and Mental Health

As well as helping them to recognize worry, manage difficulties and cope with exams, developing a more mindful awareness also helps children and young people to appreciate what is going well and to flourish.

Concentration and Cognition

Mindfulness trains us to understand and direct our attention with greater awareness and skill. This may improve the capacity of children to concentrate and be less distracted, as well as their working memory and ability to plan.

Social and Emotional Learning

Mindfulness is often taught in the context of PSHE. It helps to develop a greater awareness of relationships and how to manage them (including difficult ones at home), as well as offering a richer understanding of things like self-esteem and optimism.

Behavior

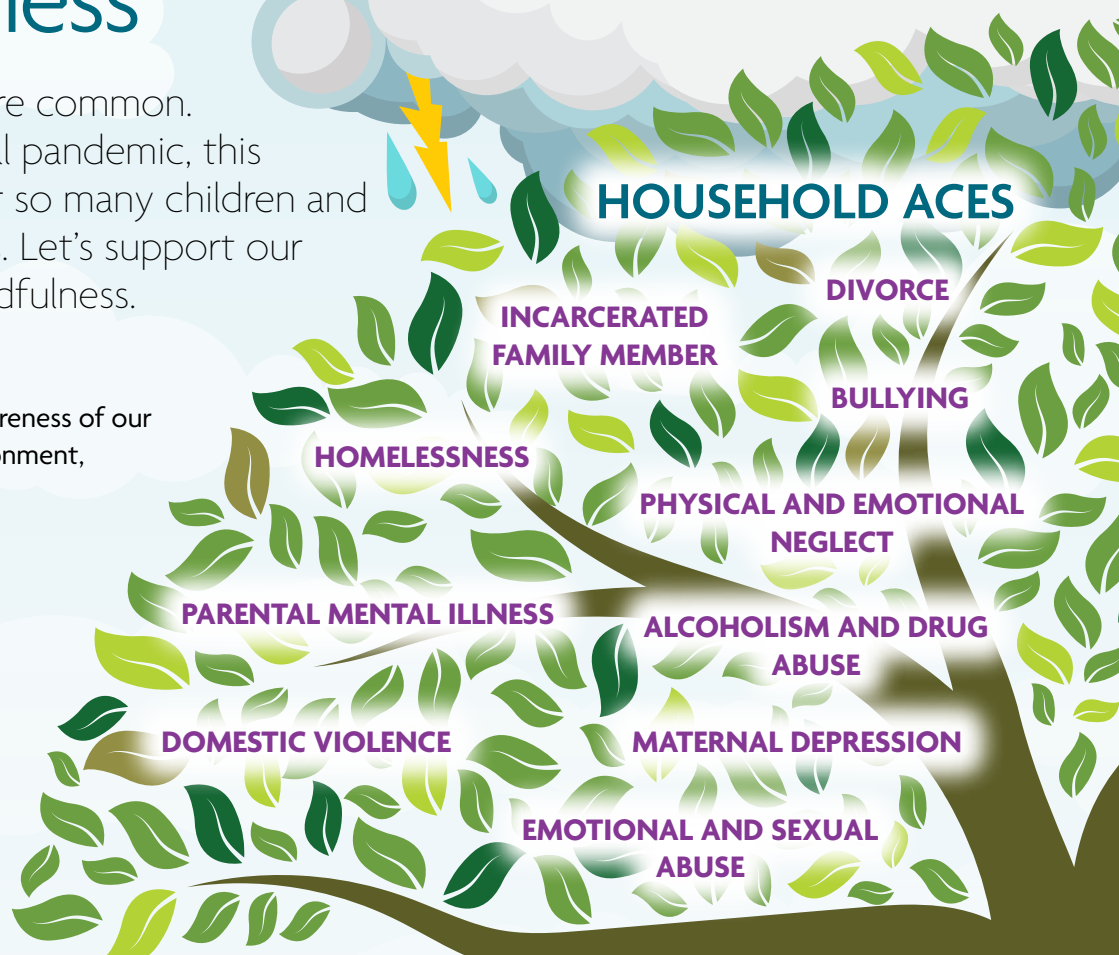

Mindfulness may help the young to self-regulate more effectively, manage impulsivity and reduce conflict and oppositional behavior. It should not, however, be used as a disciplinary tool.
